1 PRE-PACKAGING

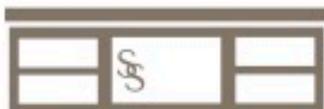

Clear your space, clear your mind.

Our pre-packing and clearing process begins with a cooperative discussion with our clients. Helping you identify and remove items that do not support the sale of your current home not only initiates a transition towards more organized living, it helps free up time so you can focus your energy on finding your new home. With options to have us pare down your items and pack for you, you can put even more time back in your day, knowing we're sorting, cataloging, and boxing up the items you've decided to carry forward into your new space.

2 STAGING & CLARIFYING

Put on a good show.

According to a 2018 Home Staging Resource Survey of over 4200 homes, 85% of staged homes sold for 6-25% more than unstaged homes. Properly done, staging shows off what makes your home special, and allows potential buyers to see themselves in your space. Throughout our home organization process we help you clarify the space through removal, placement, sorting, and prioritizing. With an eye for maximizing the use of your current possessions, we help save on costs that can be invested into your new home instead.

3 INVENTORY & PREPAREDNESS

Simplify your move.

By applying strategic organization principles, we help you take inventory of valuable possessions, key financial documentation, and critical contact information, to ensure your records and secure your logins and passwords. Canceling, transferring, and contracting utilities from old house to new can be smooth and painless. Our step-by-step preparedness planning and coordination keeps the important details from falling through the cracks.

4 UNPACKING

Start organized, stay organized.

Moving into a new home is more than just opening boxes and putting things away. We assess the space, analyze your organizational goals, and align with your personal style. Purchasing containers as needed, we purposefully place your items into your new space according to where they may best be used. Additional fine tuning & maintenance services are available once you've had a chance to live a while in your new home, allowing you to reflect on how the organization has worked for you so far, and providing the opportunity and support to adjust as needed.
